SORRY! I FOUND SOMEONE I LIKE.

I was waiting for you.

When a person loses someone,
They tend to chase after their shadow.

They will remember them from a single moment.
From the paths they've walked together,
From parks where they laughed together,
From the street corners where they would meet,
And from those memories, they would tear up.

That is never something to be embarrassed about.
And there is no reason to force yourself to forget.

When you have a feeling you cannot forget,
I think it just shows how much you truly loved that person.

And until that feeling turns into a precious memory,
Even if being true to your feelings,
May be painful, I think it's a very important thing.
